Planning Your Story Map Blog

#1: ID your target audience
↳ Who are you making this for?

WHY THIS MATTERS II
◦ tone/vocab ◦ emotional arc ◦ lvl. of detail

Case Studies
WHID
- Students
- Drs of travel
SSoAG
- Animal vrs
- General conservation interest
CS
- Casual reader
- non-ubiquitous interest

Other Tips / Qs to Ask
! What can I assume they know about my topic?
! How can I make story relatable for them?
! Don't try to target everyone under the sun
↳ remix/repurpose instead

#2: ID your key messages / takeaways
↳ What's most important thing for your audience to remember?

WHY THIS MATTERS
Keeps you focused/prevents creep

Case Studies
WHID
- Some of World's most culturally unique places @ risk; UNESCO trying to save them
SSoAG
- Giraffes are funky, cool, + in desperate need of our help
CS
- Life doesn't stick to your plans; some deviations will be for the better

Other Tips / Qs to Ask
! Why am I telling this story, anyway?
! Limit yourself to three points max
! Good time to define success + goals, too

#3: Create Content Inventory
↳ What content is available to you now?
What don't you have that you need?

WHY THIS MATTERS II
◦ Makes outlining easier ◦ Makes building easier
◦ Helps set workload expectations

Case Studies
WHID
- UNESCO Data
- Maps (filtered views)
- Chartist or Δ/Θ
- Need to source photos
SSoAG
- Study results
- Species ranges
- Images needed
- Relatable map needed
CS
- had images
- had video
- had gps tracks
- needed maps

Other Tips / Qs to Ask
! Do I have visuals that relate to each key point?
! If my story is chronological, do I have visuals for the beginning, middle, + end?
! Do I have enough variety in my media?
! Do my visuals have a consistent look + feel?

#4: Create an outline (or two, or three)
↳ What are some of the ways you can structure your story?
Which one best aligns with your audience + key msg?

WHY THIS MATTERS II
◦ Organizes your thoughts ◦ low-risk way to test ideas
◦ Forces you outside the box

Case Studies
WHID
- Start w/ basics
- introduce tension
- end on hopeful note
SSoAG
- Start w/ fun facts to entertain/pique interest
- introduce problem + explain
- Provide clear action to inspire hope
CS
- Start in middle, hook reader w/ setting + characters
- reveal plot twist
- build back up to possibility of beginning but w/ more nuance this time

Other Tips / Qs to Ask
! Tension is Key
! Do you have a strong enough hook?
! OK to be non-linear, but need clear order of events by the end
! Good point to ask others for feedback

#5: Don't be afraid to change/adapt as you go
↳ Your outline is a guide, not a dictator

WHY THIS MATTERS II
◦ Evaluating story flow is must ◦ Theory ≠ Practice

Case Studies
WHID
→ reduced # of sidecars (2/site planned originally)
CS
→ re-ordered to be non-linear
→ trimmed copy down a lot
TIPS + Other Qs
! Ask others for reaction
! Does X contribute to either understanding km, or emo. reaction?

Some Considerations for Your StoryMap

- DO include good quality visuals – like photographs, maps, and videos. Visual impact is very important
- DON'T include too much text in the story. People don't have time to read it all
- DO keep a focus on the main theme
- DON'T get distracted and bring a lot of unnecessary details
- DO keep the technical details to a minimum if your story is aimed at general audience
- DON'T include data or maps that you can not verify the authenticity and quality of.
- DO include sources and citations

En Suite Quoi?

- Nous vous recommandons de créer une nouvelle StoryMap qui va capturer votre parcours dans ce programme. Chaque jour, vous pouvez ajouter une page sur la StoryMap qui décrit votre apprentissage et votre création/sortie. À la fin du programme, vous aurez une belle StoryMap qui montre vos expériences et vos produits.
- Cette deuxième StoryMap peut devenir votre portfolio numérique que vous pouvez partager avec des employeurs potentiels et mettre sur votre CV pour mettre en valeur vos compétences.

Bonne Narration!
